Unit Manager / Team Manager / Senior Environment Protection Officer / Environment Protection Officer

22/09/2003 – Current

After starting my role as an Environment Protection Officer at MEPA in 2003, I was promoted to a Senior Officer in 2010. Following this, I was officially designated a Team Manager in 2016 and a Unit Manager in 2017.

During this time, main aspects that I have worked on have included:

- strategic and other policy, including legislative proposals
- data management
- monitoring (including habitat and species mapping)
- reporting
- project management
- procurement
- communication
- permitting

These have been linked to the following themes:

- terrestrial, coastal and marine environments
- biodiversity and nature
- protected areas designation and management
- species protection, including pollinators
- water, including surface waters, urban waste water and nitrates
- biosafety
- landscape
- desertification
- geology
- drivers of environmental impacts (including invasive alien species and marine litter, amongst others)

The above aspects are taken into consideration at the national, regional and global level, with various fora being regularly attended at all levels, including meetings of the EU Commission, the Council of the European Union and the Presidency of the Council of the European Union, as well as of various multilateral environmental agreements both at regional and United Nations level. In this regard, I represent Malta at the Nature Directors' meetings, chair the Bureau of ACCOBAMS (having also chaired the Meeting of the Parties held in Malta in 2022 and led the selection of a new Executive Secretary) and form part of the Bureau of the UNEP/MAP Barcelona Convention. I have also been the lead for the biodiversity and biosafety portfolios during Malta's Presidency of the Council of the European Union in 2017, during which time I also chaired selected meetings. Over the years, I have attended and led the technical team at three United Nations Conference of the Parties (1 biodiversity/ biosafety, 2 desertification) and was part of the team of another such conference (biodiversity/biosafety).

As Unit Manager of the Biodiversity & Natural Resources Unit within ERA, I manage and lead a team of around 30 officials (there was an extensive period when the number was around 40). This role entails the consideration of other work flows, including but not limited to budgeting, performance appraisals, annual reporting, and following of key performance indicators. I am also involved in various recruitment panels.

HOBBIES AND INTERESTS

- Main personal hobbies/interests:
travelling, reading, learning new things, crafts, voluntary activities

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

- Other aspects of relevance
In the past years, I have attended to tens of regional and global meetings abroad, including various seminars, workshops, negotiation meetings and conferences. Further information has been provided earlier on in this CV.

In 2012 I was supervisor for a dissertation with the title 'Innovative Financing Mechanisms of Biodiversity in Small Island States', prepared by Mr Duncan Borg for an M.A Islands and Small States Studies (Malta).

MANAGEMENT AND LEADERSHIP SKILLS

- Experience linked to management and leadership skills
Thanks to the roles that I have been offered and have attained especially during my time at the Environment and Resources Authority (formerly MEPA), I have gained various skills in leadership and management. Having coached, mentored and led various colleagues through the years, and having attended to management training while aiming to apply it in practice, I garnered further development of managerial, leadership and organisational skills. Noting the various themes that are within the remit of the Biodiversity & Natural Resources Unit and the extent of the Unit, it is crucial to ensure that such skills are applied and enhanced as necessary through time.

Indeed, regular following of online resources and reading of other publications, helps in keeping up with the necessary motivation and application of practices through different scenarios that arise through time. These include amongst others sound planning, methodological skills, prioritisation, coordination, time management and attention to detail, qualities that I inherently have and further developed through time as situations necessitate. Such skills are essential to attain effective results.

COMMUNICATION AND INTERPERSONAL SKILLS

● Experience linked to communication and interpersonal skills

Through the years I have attended various meetings in Malta and abroad, including negotiation meetings, some of which I chair myself. I have also led various nature tours, and been involved in various television slots. Especially from 2010, I have led several team members, which currently stands at around 30 colleagues (there was an extensive period when the number was of around 40).

Further to work experiences (which have also included an overseas development exposure), I have followed various training opportunities, as well as been involved in various voluntary activities and two cultural exchanges abroad.

Thanks to involvement in various aspects as outlined in this CV, various communication and interpersonal skills have been strengthened through the years.
